

National Work Readiness Credential (NWRC), Career Readiness Certificate (CRC) and WorkKeys:
Three Tools for Measuring Skills along a Career Path

LEVEL	COMMUNICATION SKILLS					DECISIONMAKING SKILLS		INTERPERSONAL SKILLS		LEARNING SKILLS
	Speak	Listen	Observe	Locate Info	Read	Math	Solve Problems	Cooperate	Resolve conflict	Take Responsibility for Learning	Use ICT
WorkKeys 6-8								Teamwork
CRC 3-5
NWRC

The National Work Readiness Credential fills a critical gap left by WorkKeys tools at the first rung of the career ladder. Businesses across industry sectors agree that nine skills are critical to competent performance of entry-level work. The WorkKeys Career Readiness Certificate only measures three of these skills.

The National Work Readiness Credential measures all nine—and certifies that an individual can use all of these skills at the level employers agree is necessary for success in entry-level jobs.
